

The best of both worlds

Wellendorff has developed a unique piece of jewellery for the Geneva watch manufacturer Patek Philippe: The innovative link bracelet elegantly adorns the new Golden Ellipse watch – and it can be easily adjusted to fit any wrist.

MANUFACTORY

Unmistakeable harmony: The Wellendorff W is finely engraved on the clasp of the bracelet, which is made up of more than 300 links.

Specialist seeks experts to create something truly special. Patek Philippe and Wellendorff are almost made to work together: two long-standing partners who represent the highest quality and have the same understanding of beauty and value. Wellendorff has produced an exceptional link bracelet for the Geneva watch manufacturer. It gives the Golden Ellipse reference 5738/1R-001, a new model of this iconic watch from Patek Philippe, the support it deserves: elegant, supple, wonderfully comfortable and unmistakeably Wellendorff. The hand-polished chain strap made of 18-karat rose gold is also impressively flexible. It can be easily adjusted to any wrist as its special design allows individual extension links to be removed or added without being visible – absolutely innovative.

The bracelet, developed exclusively for Patek Philippe, blends perfectly with the slim, flat watch case with 363 individual parts. This includes over 300 links, which the Wellendorff goldsmiths assemble individually and traditionally by hand. The clasp boasts an engraved cover. It adopts the motif of the bracelet and features three adjustment positions. In a mark of technical brilliance, the gold appears to be woven, reproducing the incomparable feeling of a warm embrace as the strap wraps gently and flatteringly around the wrist.

Two special works of art combine to create one magnificent masterpiece. The link bracelet blends seamlessly with the oval of the watch, which is also made of 18-karat rose gold and encloses an ebony-black sunburst dial with fine rose gold hands. To make a long story short, when a specialist and expert come together the result is truly marvellous!
